

LIMITED WARRANTY

Americon warrants the products that it manufactures to be free from defects in materials and workmanship for a period of three years from the date of sale. Americon warrants all metal frame components for the lifetime of the product. Normal wear and tear of products and/or neglect and abuse are the sole responsibility of the owner. Americon at its own discretion will determine whether to remedy claims by repair or replacement. Repairs and/or replacement are specifically performed to fulfill the warranty period obligation and in no way extend warranty life past the originally agreed period. Americon takes no responsibility for the repair or replacement of any products that are damaged through abuse, neglect, improper use, alteration or the result of freight or handling except when products are in our control. Americon at its own discretion may charge for servicing, repair and/or replacement of goods damaged through the above mentioned circumstances.

All warranties for electronic equipment supplied by Americon are covered by the terms and conditions set forth by the individual original equipment manufacturer. Unless otherwise agreed, these warranties supersede Americon's standard warranties. If a service contract is not in place, the responsibility for site removal, inbound and outbound freight along down time are limited to the individual manufacturer's warranty. Most electronics manufacturers do not provide onsite warranties; therefore, the client takes responsibility for sending equipment back to the manufacturer and reinstalling items upon their return. The "Client" may acquire from Americon a contract to extend warranties past those of the original equipment manufacturers. The "Client" may also acquire a service contract to diagnose problems, affect the repairs and provide the services enumerated above which are normally the responsibility of the client. If a service contract is not in place, Americon can also provide services on a case by case basis which many times is more cost effective than a service contract based on the age of the equipment.
